

First Rate Facilitation for Active Learning

Audience:

Educators, Human Service and Youth Workers, Volunteers, Trainers

Program Description

Facilitating active learning requires different ways of thinking - and different skills - than prescriptive teaching. Learn the theory and practice of using active learning strategies to promote the development of communication, problem-solving, and goal-setting skills among members of your group.

- Strengthen your abilities to guide learning!
- Build your repertoire of involving learning strategies!
- Strengthen your own group relationship skills!
- Discover techniques to empower learners while managing group dynamics!
- Gain resources in a learning community!

Program Content

- Learner-centered facilitation versus leader-centered training
- Using experiential strategies that facilitate learning and that:
 - students will remember
 - are meaningful and fun
 - enhance and complement other teaching techniques
 - build community among learners
- Building a fully encouraging environment
- Practice facilitating learning
- Practice getting and giving empowering feedback
